

A Smart Bird

A hot sunny day, a bird was flying in the sky. It was thirsty so it wanted to find a river.

After a while, it saw a jar of water on the grass. But the neck of the jar was narrow. So it wanted to find something useful to help it drink the water.

Suddenly, the bird came up with a good idea. It picked some stones under a tree and put them in the water. The water went up.

Finally, the bird could drink the water. It was not thirsty anymore. It felt terrific.
