

An expected day

5A So Hoi Yan, Hailey

Last week, Sarah went to Jungle Land with her cousin. Her cousin, James asked, 'Can we watch the Monkey Dance Show, please?' 'Okay.' Sarah answered. They were excited.

After a few minutes, the seats of the show were almost full. It was crowded. Fortunately, they could on the front seats. They could take a closer look at the monkeys. Sarah couldn't wait to take photos of the monkeys and shared them on her Instagram.

She concentrated on her Instagram's posts so she did not look up the sign, 'Don't step beyond the yellow line!' A security guard warned Sarah. The worst thing was that she did not hear it! She walked closer to the monkeys. 'Ah!' Sarah screamed. Oh no! Sarah's phone was taken by the monkeys. Sarah was furious.

A trainer came to the stage. He asked, 'Would you like to exchange the phone with a banana?' 'Okay!' said the little monkey. 'I can't believe my eyes! Look! James!' shouted Sarah. The little monkey knew how to speak English! The trainer gave Sarah's phone back and said, 'You should look up the sign before taking photos.' Sarah nodded her head and thanked the trainer.