

A Trip to the Peak

Last Sunday, I went to Central with my sister, Hailey. We met some tourists who were gathering near the pier and looking at the map with hesitation. They felt so frustrated that they did not know the way to the Peak. Therefore, they asked us, 'Could you show me the way to the Peak?' 'No problem!' we replied politely.

When we were walking to the Peak Station, the tourists chatted with us happily. They said, 'Thank you very much for your help! We spent ten hours travelling from the U.S.A. to Hong Kong because we heard the Peak is good for taking photos of Hong Kong. That's why we want to get there!' I said, 'Yes, sure! The Peak is not only famous for its panoramic vision of Hong Kong, but also its various kinds of restaurants and gift shops.'

When we arrived at the Peak Tram Station, to our surprise, we found that the Peak Tram was out of service! The tourists felt very disappointed. Hailey said immediately, 'Don't be disappointed! Hong Kong has many other famous tourist attractions. Just follow us!'

After that, we brought the tourists to other famous attractions such as the Big Buddha and Hong Kong Wetland Park. Their eyes widened in surprise whenever they saw something interesting. They all enjoyed their trip very much. Last but not least, all of us were so glad that we could make friends with one another. What a fruitful day!
