

A Lesson for My Little Brother

This morning, my little brother, Jack was reluctant to wake up. My mum was as mad as a hornet. She scolded him, 'Why are you still sleeping? It's already eight o'clock!' Therefore, Jack woke up quickly and started packing his school bag. Although he spent a lot of time looking for his paintbrushes and textbooks, he failed to find them. Then he had to rush to school so he only ate a piece of bread. 'I'm going to be late for school. I need to hurry up!' Jack gasped.

Jack decided to go to school by bus. When he got on the bus, he found neither his octopus card nor coin purse. Therefore, he had to run to school quickly. Fortunately, he could arrive at school in time so he was as happy as a lark.

The first lesson was Art lesson. Jack thought, 'I am going to be scolded by my teacher because I don't have any paintbrushes.' Therefore, he cooked up a story to his teacher but the teacher knew he was lying. Then the teacher said, 'It doesn't matter if you can admit your mistakes honestly after doing something wrong. If you're not honest, other people won't trust you anymore.' Finally, Jack understood that he should always be honest.

I am glad to see Jack could learn a lesson from this incident. If he is as slippery as an eel, he may break the laws and get punished when he grows up.
